A PARTING COMPLIMENT.—Saturday morning, the ladies boarding at the National Hotel, learning that Mrs. Crittenden would soon leave them for her Kentucky home, improvised a brilliant entertainment, which was given that evening. The large saloons of the hotel were filled with a fashionable party, including many political, diplomatic, and military celebrities.

We noticed Vice President Hamlin, General Scott, most of the members of the Cabinet, and nearly all the Senators who are in the city were also present, as well as a good representation of the diplomatic corps.

At ten o'clock, Mrs. Crittenden was the recipient of a magnificent bouquet, presented, with a few brief remarks, by Judge Nelson, in behalf of the lady boarders. Mr. Lovejoy also made a brief address, after which the party repaired to the supper room, where a bountiful repast awaited them. Dancing was afterwards resumed, and kept up until midnight.

ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association was held at their hall, on Pennsylvania avenue, last evening. An election of officers was had, with the following result: M. H. Miller, President; B. B. Ferguson, J. E. Chase, William J. Rhee, B. H. Sumner, and J. H. Moore, Vice Presidents; O. Knight, Corresponding Secretary; Samuel McElwee, Recording Secretary; H. Beard, Treasurer; J. H. Tucker, Librarian; W. E. Franklin, Register; James B. Monroe, J. S. Slater, T. E. Daniel, W. T. Smithson, and G. H. Lewis, Directors.

On motion, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Bradley, Rhee, and Wright, was appointed to make arrangements for the anniversary meeting, which takes place on the first Monday in April.

The Association then adjourned, to meet again next Monday evening.

CRIMINAL COURT.—Yesterday, James Fogarty, convicted on Saturday last of an assault and battery on John Hogan, was called up and sentenced to pay a fine of $20 and costs.

Bernard Donnelly (special policeman) was then placed on trial, charged with an assault and battery on Robert Cross, on inauguration day. Mr. Ould appeared for the United States, and Mr. Norris for the defense.

Robert Cross, being sworn, testified: that on the 4th of March he went into Norwood's restaurant, at the corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue; Donnelly came in and ran against witness several times, in a very insulting manner; witness asked him what he meant? to which Donnelly responded, that he could construe it as he pleased. Donnelly then asked witness if he remembered that he (witness) had said to him (Donnelly) in 1847, that "he would have his heart's blood?" Witness replied that he did, and repeated it. Donnelly slapped himself on the breast, and, with an oath, returned, "You son of a b—, here's the place to get your satisfaction." Witness laughed, and was turning away, when Donnelly seized him by the collar, and pulled him out of the door; several other policemen then caught hold of him, and Donnelly struck him four or five times with a thick, heavy stick, about 15 inches in length; (stick exhibited); witness placed his foot against the lower step of the flight of steps leading to the street, in order to prevent being dragged about, when the policemen placed nippers on his wrist; Donnelly struck him while the nippers were being placed on his wrist. Witness was taken before a magistrate, and discharged on the voluntary testimony of witnesses who were present and saw the affair. One of the officers struck him several times across the head with a leather-bound billy; this officer did not make his appearance at the magistrate's office; would know him by sight, but not by name. Donnelly did not say he was an officer, or talk about arresting witness, until he had got to the door, and was in the hands of the police.

Cross examined: Witness had been there about fifteen minutes before Donnelly came in; had intended to go to the Capitol to hear the inaugural. Was not standing at the door; it was not necessary for Donnelly to stoop to get into the house. Did not see Donnelly when he came in. Donnelly did not reply to any question of witness, "I did not run against him." Donnelly did not say he was not for a fight to-day, and was a special policeman. Witness did not remind Donnelly of the threat made in the Marshal's office. Two of witness's friends advised him not to say anything to Donnelly. Witness made no rush towards Donnelly; did not catch hold of him by the collar; used no abusive language—merely asked Donnelly why he ran against him. Witness did not refuse to go until after he had been severely beaten; had determined to die rather than go another step after having been so badly treated.

John McMartin testified to seeing a young man catch Cross round the neck, whom Donnelly told to let go, which he did. A few moments afterwards saw Donnelly strike Cross three or four times with a small "billy." Immediately after this Donnelly had grabbed hold of Cross, he was also seized by several other policemen. Neither Cross nor Donnelly appeared to be intoxicated at the time. There were fifteen or twenty others in the room at the time.

William Osborne, who was employed in the house, testified to the same general facts as the preceding witnesses.

Benjamin Wade testified to being attracted to the spot by a noise, and seeing Cross lying on the steps, holding on to one of the railings outside of the house. Saw Donnelly strike him three or four blows over the head before he let go his hold; saw the blood fly against the side of the house. The police were calling to the crowd to stand back.

The evidence for the prosecution closed here, and Mr. Norris called for the defense.

John Dwyer, who testified that he was a special policeman on that day, and that he went into the restaurant with Donnelly to take a drink. Cross was standing in the door, with his hand raised over one side, and Donnelly and witness were obliged to stoop to get in. Cross then went up to Donnelly, and asked him why he shoved him. Donnelly replied that he did not shove him, that he knew of. Cross then said: "I've threatened before to have your heart's blood, and I'll have it before I leave here." To which Donnelly further replied: "You cowardly rascal, you can't have my heart's blood, unless you waylay me, or catch me asleep." Cross then squared off at Donnelly, when the latter took hold of him to arrest him, and called on witness to assist. Witness and another man then took hold of him, when Cross said that "no three sons of b—s under Captain Goddard could arrest him." Cross then had hold of Donnelly's neckhandkerchief. When they got Cross outside of the door, he got his leg fixed in the steps; witness then called McNamara, another special policeman, to come and assist in arresting him. The crowd pressed around, so that it was with difficulty it could be kept off. Donnelly said he would not move an inch—he would die first. Witness considered the conduct of Cross as a breach of the peace.

Cross examined: Donnelly told Cross he had better go to the watch-house; saw Donnelly strike Cross several times; Officers Belt and Williams also had hold of Cross; could not tell how many others had hold of him at the time he was struck; there was no weapon found on Cross; could not say who clinched first; Cross kicked so vigorously, that it was necessary to haul him out. Either Cross or Donnelly could have got out of the room before the quarrel commenced, if they had so chosen.

Special police officers McNamara and Callahan were also examined for the defense, but nothing new elicited.

The case was then given to the jury, who, after due deliberation, returned a verdict of guilty. He was sentenced by the court to three months imprisonment in jail, and to pay a fine of $20.

Thomas J. Getley was then placed on trial, on two separate indictments; the first charging him with stealing a coat, valued at $12, from Oscar P. Aubert, and the second with stealing another coat, valued at $8, from Francis E. Kean. Both coats were alleged to have been stolen by him from two students of Georgetown College, in December last. After hearing the evidence in the case, the jury returned a verdict of guilty as indicted. Sentenced to the penitentiary for fifteen months on the first indictment, and six months in jail on the second.

James Perry (colored) was then tried for an assault on Rose McCaldon. It appeared, from the evidence, that both parties were employed as domestics at the Clarendon Hotel; that the prisoner playfully accused Rose of being slightly inebriated, at which she took exception to the extent of slapping him in the face with a dish-rag well saturated with hot dish-water, and that he, in return, slapped her in the face. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Jacob Feig and Antoine Daum, convicted on Friday last of stealing two kip skins, valued at $7, from Julius Ring, were called up and sentenced to one year each in the penitentiary.

On motion of Mr. J. E. Norris, John H. Johnson, Esq., was admitted to practice at this bar.

On Saturday, on motion of Mr. Bradley, T. Shelton Jones, Esq., was admitted to practice at this bar.

THE LIGHT GUARD CONCERT.—The concert of the Washington Light Guard at Odd Fellows' Hall, navy yard, on Thursday evening next, promises to be a very grand affair. Some of the best musical talent in the city have volunteered, and we hear that the programme will be made up of the best pieces of the day. We were yesterday shown the stand of colors to be presented by the ladies of the fifth and sixth wards on the occasion. They were manufactured by Mr. E. A. Gibbs, of Baltimore, and will be presented on the part of the ladies by F. McNeerhan, Esq. The colors consist of a national flag, and the small flags for the markers. The national flag is on a staff of Mount Vernon wood, surmounted by a spear. On one side of the blue field are thirty-four stars, and on the other an American eagle, holding in his beak a scroll, on which is the name of the corps, "Washington Light Guard;" while the thirteen stars for the original States are around the head of the eagle. The markers' flags are of blue silk, with the initials of the corps, W. L. G., in gold letters. The company will parade on Thursday afternoon, with full ranks.

THE CANAL.—The Chesapeake and Ohio canal is successfully resuming its annual business, after the winter's suspension. Several cargoes of grain and country produce have arrived, and such coal boats as were cut off in their passage down by the formation of ice. There would seem to be nothing to prevent an unexampled coal trade during the coming season. A. E. Soper, Esq., the collector of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal at Georgetown, reports the number of arrivals last week to be forty-four, and the revenue $1,600. The canal is in good navigable order all along the line, and the boatmen give assurances of a fine coal trade this season.

FURTHER EXAMINATION.—The parties arrested on Friday last, for fighting at the Perseverance Engine House, were brought before Justice Donn yesterday afternoon, when they all gave custody to keep the peace.

ANOTHER FIRE.—Last evening, about ten o'clock, four frame stables, situated near the corner of Ninth and L streets, were burnt to the ground. They belonged to Messrs. Sibery, Morrison, Drane, and Garner. The Perseverance, Franklin, Union, and Columbia, Fire Companies were early on the ground, and succeeded in saving the adjoining property.

HOTEL THEFT.—Officers Thompson and Morgan arrested a young man named William Thomas, in Brown's Hotel, on Saturday morning, for stealing. He had entered the hotel, and pulled off a pair of old shoes, and put on their place a pair of costly boots, belonging to Mr. A. B. Jones. On searching him, at the guardhouse, two small sums of money were found upon him, which are claimed by two of the colored waiters in the hotel. Justice Clark committed him to jail, to answer at court.

CARELESS DRIVING.—On Saturday afternoon, a little child named Connor, residing near the corner of Thirteenth and C streets, was run over by a baker's wagon and badly injured. It is hoped that the guilty driver will be arrested and made to pay well for his carelessness.

POCKET PICKED.—A day or two since, a lady residing on the navy yard, while returning from the city in an omnibus, was relieved of her pocket-book, containing about $25. She supposed that it was taken by some accomplished member of the "light-fingered fraternity," who took the opportunity of a crowded omnibus to practice his art.

CENTRAL GUARDHOUSE.—Before Justice Clark.—Patrick Gaffey, drunk; workhouse 60 days. Hannah Greer, drunk and disorderly; workhouse 60 days. Samuel Dennison, Lloyd Johnson, Bernard West, William Woodward, Basil Harrison, Hanson Mikel, and Anthony Selby, all colored, unlawful assembly; fine and costs, $5.94 each. William Eaton, carrying a pistol; security for further hearing. Lewis Travis, carrying a concealed weapon; fined $25 and costs.

DIED.

Her funeral will take place this (Tuesday) morning, at 9 o'clock, from her late residence, on E street south, between Eighth and Ninth streets. The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

Jesus, Saviour of my soul,
Let me to Thy bosom fly,

Safe into the haven guide,
O, receive my soul at last.

Prospectus of the National Republican.

Believing that the time has arrived when the great Republican party of the United States ought to be fairly represented in the daily press of the National Metropolis, we have embarked in the enterprise of supplying the citizens of the District of Columbia with a daily publication, under the title of the "NATIONAL REPUBLICAN."

In its political department, this journal will advocate and defend the principles of the Republican party, and endeavor to disabuse the public mind of groundless prejudices which have been engendered against it, by the false accusations of its enemies. Having the utmost confidence that the administration of Mr. Lincoln will be such as to merit our approbation, we expect to yield it a cordial, but not a servile support. In the great issue that is likely to be made with his administration, by the enemies of the Republican party, the people of Washington and the District of Columbia have more at stake than the people of any other portion of our common country. We believe that to support Mr. Lincoln's administration will be synonymous with maintaining the integrity of the Federal Union, against the machinations of those who would rend it asunder. No one can doubt upon which side of this issue the people of Washington will be found, when they come to realize that it is fairly forced upon them. We feel confident, therefore, that in yielding to the administration of Mr. Lincoln a cordial support, we shall have the sympathy of an immense majority of the people of this District and vicinity.

It is not our design, however, to make the National Republican a mere political paper. We intend, that as a medium of general and local news, it shall not be inferior to any other journal published in this city. We shall pay particular attention to questions of local policy, and advocate such reforms as we may deem essential to the prosperity of the city, and to the advancement of the moral and material welfare of its inhabitants.

We deem it unnecessary, however, to multiply promises, as the paper will immediately make its appearance, and will then speak for itself.

It will be published every morning, and delivered to city subscribers at six cents per week. Mail subscribers, $3.50 a year, payable in advance.

The publication office is at the corner of Indiana avenue and Second street.

Piano, Voice, and Violin.

PROF. W. A. LOVELAND, continuing his vocation as Music Teacher in the city of Washington, would announce to strangers coming here to reside that he offers his pupils the superior advantages of a thorough and greatly improved system of instruction, including the departments of Harmony and Composition.

Having had nearly thirty years' experience in teaching, he is able to adapt the lessons pleasingly and philosophically to the comprehension of the scholar, so that much of the tediousness common in musical discipline is obviated, and study and practice rendered highly attractive.

Prof. L. has taught in this city several years, and is pleased to refer to numerous patrons for the most favorable testimonials.

Terms moderate.

Prof. L. will keep in tune the pianos of his pupils without extra charge. Orders may be left at his residence, No. 432 Seventh street, near G; at Mr. Adamson's book store, Seventh street, opposite the Post Office; or at Mr. J. F. Ellis's music store, Pennsylvania avenue, near Tenth street.
